Vision Inc. announces the launch of “Charge WiFi.com,”
allowing users to top up data only when needed.

Vision Inc. (Headquarters: Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo; President, Representative Director and COO: Kenji Ota, hereinafter Vision), has launched “Charge WiFi.com,” a service that allows users to purchase a device and use Wi-Fi by topping up only the amount of data they need, when they need it.

Unlike conventional rental-type services, “Charge WiFi.com” allows users to purchase and own the device, enabling them to top up data whenever they need Wi-Fi and start using it immediately. Wi-Fi devices starting at 5,500 yen can be topped up with data valid for 30 or 365 days, letting them get online instantly whenever they need. While owning their own Wi-Fi device, there are no contractual period restrictions and no ongoing fixed fees.

The available data plans for domestic use range from 1GB (30 days) at 500 yen to 100GB (365 days) at 6,300 yen. For overseas use, we provide plans from 1GB (30 days) at 1,570 yen to 10GB (30 days) at 15,700 yen, which can be used in 108 countries and regions worldwide. Users can flexibly select the plan that best fits their usage needs. They can check their remaining data balance on the device monitor and top up at any time even if data remains. When their current data runs out, it will automatically switch to additional data, allowing them to use the service with peace of mind.

- * All prices include tax. (Overseas plans are tax-exempt.)
- * The number of days in parentheses indicates the validity period.
